Professor's Ranch Receives Notoriety In Film, Magazine

By
MRS. MARJORIE HITCHCOCK
In the movies and in the Saturday Evening Post in one week—that is the exciting experience of Dr. William J. McCallum, dean of men at Hartnell college.

Hartnell's Three Top Graduates

Anderson and New Staff Preside Over First Meeting

Under Pres. Gus Anderson, the 1956-57 commissioners officially took over at Monday's regular meeting and transacted several important items of business pertinent to next school term.

The Hartnell college Flying club was awarded the food concession at home football games on the same agreement that was in effect this year.

The commissioner of finance was granted the right to complete purchase orders for football programs, tickets and passes, student body cards, publicity dividers, a Whiz receipt machine and 5,000 Whiz machine receipts. The new Whiz machine was put on order when it was discovered that a new machine plus 5,000 receipts could be purchased for only $3 more than the cost of 5,000 receipts for the old machine.

Recall Item Tabled

The controversial recall amendment to the student body constitution authored by George Dudley and Frank Sherrill, outgoing commissioners, was tabled indefinitely by the new commission following extended discussion on the matter.

Hartnell College Musical Societies Present Concert

Three groups from the Hartnell college music department combined their talents Thursday evening when they presented their annual spring concert in the Hartnell college Little theater. Mr. Vahe Aslanian directed the groups.

Featured in the concert were the Hartnell college choir, the Madrigal singers, and the opera workshop group.

The Madrigal singers opened the program with a presentation of three numbers. There were followed by five numbers by the members of the opera workshop with Merri Irving, Marie Oliveira, Charlotte Eppey, Don Gilmore, and James Tarantina as featured soloists.

Dr. J. Frederic Ching Will Give Diplomas

Graduation exercises at Hartnell college will be held at 8 p.m. Friday in the men's gymnasium with Dr. J. Frederic Ching, Salinas superintendent of schools, presenting degrees and diplomas to about 150 graduates.

Music for the evening will be presented by the Hartnell college band, directed by Mr. Lorell McCann, and the college choir, directed by Mr. Vahe Aslanian.

The affair will open with the processional by the band. Music will include Gunzel's "The Host of Youth" and "The Star Spangled Banner." Rabbi Abraham Haselkorn will offer the invocation.

Original Composition Listed

The choir will present the "Dresden Amen," followed by a cornet solo, "Trumpeter's Lullaby," by Constancio Gionson. The band will then play an original composition by one of its members and a member of the graduating class, Robert Endersby. The number will be, "Nocturne in C Minor."

Conferring of special honors and awards will be highlighted by recognition of Claudia Brown as the top woman graduate and Robert Irvine as the top student in the class.

Other awards will be announced or listed on the program. They include: presentation of American Legion Auxiliary award by Mrs. Wayne Emlay; American Legion award, Harold Hiserman; business award, Mr. Claude Addison; Alpha Gamma Sigma award, Mr. Robert Johnston, and Monterey county historical society award, Mrs. Donald Davies.

Degrees and diplomas will be conferred by Stuart Dufour, Hartnell college president, and presented by Dr. Ching. The Rev. Cornish Jones will give the benediction. This will be followed by the "Seven Fold Amen" by the choir, and the recessional by the band.

A reception will follow in the John B. Lemos Memorial student union. The Associated Women Students will be hostesses.

Prom Brings 184 To Mountain Spot

Hartnell's annual spring prom was held Saturday at Brookdale lodge in the Santa Cruz mountains. Prime roast beef was served at the lodge to the 92 couples who attended. The dance was held across the highway from the lodge.

Chuck Travis' band played for the dance which started about 10 p.m. and ended at 1:30 a.m.

Chaperones for the prom were: Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Dufour and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Swanson. Other teachers present were, Mr. and Mrs. George Abbott and Mr. William Kunhart.

Irvine, Brown And Pletschet Are Top Hartnell Scholars

Robert Irvine, Claudia Brown, and Clifford Pletschet are the top three honor students for the graduating year, it was recently announced. Irvine, a business administration major, is the top man student with Miss Brown the top woman student. Pletschet tied with Miss Brown in the grade averages for their first three semesters.

Irvine, a graduate of Salinas Union high school, was born in Fresno. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma and was active in student government and glee club work. He plans to transfer to the University of California next fall. Irvine, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Irvine of Salinas, was awarded a $300 scholarship from the University of California alumni.

Claudia Ferne Brown is the recipient of two scholarships. She received a $100 scholarship from the American Association of University Women, and a $300 scholarship from the Alpha Lambda chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma.

Miss Brown was born in Grange, Calif., and attended schools in Clatskanie, Ore. She is the daughter of the Rev. Claude Brown of Lakeview, Ore. She is a member of (Continued on Page 2)

Summer Play Set By College Players

"For Her Child's Sake" or "Her First False Step" has been scheduled tentatively for Hartnell college-community players' summer production. The three-act comedy melodrama is by Paul Loomis. Present plans call for oleo acts in conjunction with the melodrama.

According to Mr. Hal Ulrici, director of the players, an attempt will be made to hold the summer production performances during the Salinas rodeo. The play may be further tied in with the rodeo by western type costumes for the players.

Dates of tryouts will be announced later.

ASPIRING SCRIBES VISIT NEWSPAPERS

Four members of the journalism 20A class and their instructor, Mr. George Abbott, visited the newspaper plants of the Gonzales Tribune and the Soledad Bee Monday to study the weekly newspaper field. Hosts were the newspaper staffs, Charles and Warren Coffey and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jacobson.

Many Deserve Credit for Paper

Since this is the last time many of us will be putting out a newspaper at Hartnell, it seems fitting to give credit where credit is due. Therefore, we shall devote this space to thanking some of the people without whom this paper could not have been published.

Whether you realize it or not, you, the students at Hartnell college, Salinas, Calif., 1955-56, were the most important factor affecting this year's Panther Sentinel. Without you there would have been no paper. You are our news, our staff, our resources and most important, our justification. We very sincerely thank you and wish you the best possible good luck and success in future years.

Perhaps the next most important body of people to which thanks are due is our faculty. Their splendid cooperation and patience was the catalyst that motivated us and enabled us to reach for a higher standard than would have otherwise been possible. We thank them wholeheartedly and are glad that most of them will be back next year to help our successors in the same way.

The single person who contributed the most to our newspaper this year was Mr. George Abbott, journalism instructor and Hartnell publicity head. Mr. Abbott was confronted with what might have been a "nightmare" publication at the beginning of this year and, in spite of his small staff and his newness at Hartnell, he made it what it is today. Even his own students sometimes fail to realize the staggering amount of work and worrying he has done in connection with the Panther Sentinel. We can say only that we will always be in debt to him for his advice, assistance and inspiration.

We had our good moments and our bad this year. They both serve a purpose. We can look back upon the good moments with satisfaction. As for the bad, we learned from them. We do appreciate the patience of our readers, who, we feel, any newspaper would be grateful to have.

Last, we are deeply honored to have played a small part in the functioning and improvement of Hartnell college. It is our hope and dream that our efforts contributed something of value to future students here. (J. L.)

national parks. Both he and his wife have always had an interest in being outdoors, horseback riding or hiking. They looked, off and on for a number of summers, for a suitable place to operate, and at last found "Jackson Hole ranch."

The McCallums have developed the 90-acre place into a dude ranch which accommodates about 20 guests. Although it is hard work, and they are busy from early morning to late at night, they love their summers in the midst of that beautiful scenery, in country which is the center of one of the greatest wildlife sanctuaries in the United States, and which abounds with deer, elk and moose.

The Snake river is famous as a fly-fishing stream and for its cut-throat trout, and the McCallums, all summer long, accompany guests on fishing trips along the river or to nearby lakes. They take their guests on scenic horseback rides or hikes into the beautiful Tetons, or up to Yellowstone national park, a two hour drive from the ranch.

Life runs very smoothly at the ranch, according to Dr. McCallum. He could only remember one embarrassing experience when a new wrangler took a party on a long, hot, dry trip and forgot the water. It didn't help the poor wrangler's feelings to bring back an angry, hot and thirsty group and then find he had tied the horses and eaten a dry lunch right over a hidden spring.

student station wagon was stored for the summer.

At the close of the session, Dr. W. J. McCallum, commission advisor, commended the old commission on "a job well done" and extended best wishes to the new commissioners.

Highlight of last week's gathering was a motion that it be recommended to the new commission to set aside 10 per cent of the initial cost of the student union furniture out of the bond account to satisfy the school district's request for the repair and replacement of said furniture.

In another transaction at that meeting, the commission approved the expenditure of money for three more award jackets and for embroidering four tennis jackets, and for more block awards, the money to come from unallocated balance.

Clifford Pletschet is a journalism major. The 26-year-old student was born in Canada and attended schools there. He has been active in student government and journalism at Hartnell. This year he served as commissioner of public relations.

As editor of the Panther Sentinel,

Sandra Lim Given Journalism Award

Sandra Lim, a Salinas Union high school senior, has been awarded the $100 Salinas Californian journalism scholarship to attend Hartnell college next fall. Miss Lim intends to become a high school journalism teacher or enter some other phase of journalism.

Jack Patton, Californian managing editor, announced two weeks ago that the newspaper would offer the scholarship. "This is the first of what I hope will be several journalism scholarships," commented Mr. George Abbott, Hartnell journalism instructor.

Donald Shock, high school principal, announced selection of Miss Lim, calling her a very good student who "does everything thoroughly and very well." Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Toy Lim, 3 Wood street. They operate a restaurant.

ENGINEERS ENJOY SUCCESSFUL PICNIC

"A huge success" was the reply of George Dudley when asked about the Engineer's club annual barbecue held May 20 at Big Sur. Dudley stated that almost 60 persons attended the picnic.

Faculty guests were Mr. Vincent Anselmo, Mr. William Bullis, Dr. Jerome Holmes, and Mr. Clifford Swanson. Chef for the occasion was John Georgalos, "mayor" of Santa Rita.

The choir, under direction of Mr. Aslanian, presented the west coast premier of the "De Las Montanas," by Santa Cruz; his "En la Tierra Arada del Invierno," and Hovhanness's "Four Motets," all featured on Thursday's program, at the College of Pacific earlier this month. Mr. Aslanian previously conducted the premiers of these numbers at the Berkshire music center, Tanglewood, Mass., last summer.

Members of the Madrigals singers were Claudia Brown, Miss Eppley, Miss Irving, Joyce Shifley, sopranos; Sharon Axe, Ann Lopes and Miss Oliveira, altos; Gilmore, Don Loucks, Tarantina and Theodore Weydell, tenors, and Constancio Gionson, Staten Johnston, Nathan Olivas, and Alfred Machado, basses.

nel, Pletschet led the newspaper to an all-American rating from the Associated Collegiate Press. Pletschet is married to a junior high school teacher. They reside in Santa Cruz and have one daughter. Pletschet plans to transfer to the University of California.

Flying Club Held Annual Barbecue With Seventeen Persons Attending

The Hartnell college Flying club held its annual steak barbecue at the Sky Park airport, near Santa Cruz, May 20.

Club members flew two of the club's airplanes there to practice and give guests flights over the local countryside.

Seventeen persons attended this affair, including: Mr. Darwin Peavy and Mr. Jay Hickenlooper, club advisors, and their wives; Ivo Bro, club president, and his wife; Robert Thomas, Philip Vessey, Paul Heaney, Roy Blair, and seven guests.

Bro and Mr. Peavy are making arrangements to attend the first National Flying club convention to be held at Seattle, Wash., from July 30 to August 2. Two others are making tentative plans to attend.

Bro stated that this convention, the biggest event of its kind ever to be staged anywhere, will welcome any flying club from the United States, Canada and Mexico.

At this convention, it is intended that there will be organized a central flying committee to represent clubs all over the country in their views on problems affecting club flying. Plans will be made to encourage the promotion of a national safety flying program.

A program has been set for the guests to include a trip to Victoria; a visit to Bremerton, to see the battleship Missouri, and a tour around the Boeing aircraft plant.

"Fen" Cooper, Engineering Major, Boasts Wide Variety Of Hobbies

By ROY BAYFORD

Joseph "Fen" Cooper, III, an engineering student, is somewhat of a hobby fiend. Whereas many people embark on only one or two hobbies, Cooper has entwined his spare time around five.

While at Santa Cruz high school, he set his mind on becoming a mining engineer. In following with his prospective engineering vocation, he has collected himself a remarkable rock and mineral collection, including some 250 different rocks, a venture that sprung up from a 50-cent collection, bought at Yellowstone park seven years ago. Now he spends much of his spare time chemically analyzing these rocks to find their mineral content.

Many of the rock specimens were found in the High Sierra where he spends most of his vacations exploring the caves and collecting butterflies, moths and various other insects. Collecting butterflies and cave exploring are two more of his hobbies. These three hobbies he combines on frequent trips to the Sierra.

Enjoys Exploring Caves

Cooper's lust for exploring caves has taken him many places and offered many experiences. He explored most of the caves around Santa Cruz, found several exciting caves in the Sierra and has been through the lava caves of Oregon. He stated, "I am always curious to see what is in the other side of an opening, to look for something unusual, and of course, rock specimens."

"It's fascinating," Cooper said, "to enter into tunnels and adjoining rooms to see where they lead." Gold Gulch near Felton, primarily thought to be a gold find in the 1880's, still shows signs of gold, he claims. "I plan, at some future date to do some prospecting in that area."

Has Close Shave

Just recently, he crawled into a cave and had to take off part of his clothing in order to get out. He claims this as being as close as he wanted to get into a tight squeeze, and plans to be more careful next time.

While in the high school, he was given a biology class assignment to collect 25 insects. This collection has since grown into some 300 or 400 insects of all shapes and sizes. Aligning the walls of his room are all kinds of guns, carved to scale from pine or maple wood, carefully made with a pocketknife. He has carved replicas of the ancient pocketknife pistol, cutlass pistol, derringer and pistols through the ages to automatics.

Airplane Models Small

Scattered over his shelves are small model World War I planes cut to scale. Most of these are smaller than three inches. "I have found many deviations for time," he stated, adding, "Time was not meant to be wasted."

Now he is putting the finishing touches to a small model of a coast guard vessel. He started making it during the Christmas vacation and is nearly finished. Made to scale, three quarters of an inch to one foot, it is about three and one-half feet long. This is first attempt at making a radio controlled

Art Students At DeYoung Museum, Examine Original Paintings, Sculpture

Twenty-seven members of art classes of Hartnell college went to San Francisco recently to visit the De Young museum and the Palace of the Legion of Honor. Mr. Leon K. Amyx and Mrs. Thomas Silliman accompanied the students.

The purpose of the visit was to enable the art students to see original paintings which they had been studying all year, and to acquaint them with the major museums in San Francisco.

One highlight of the trip was the exhibition of the treasures of the Jacquemart Andre museum of Paris, an exhibition comprising 50 masterpieces of European painting and sculpture from the Renaissance to the eighteenth century.

As a result of always wanting something to do, Cooper has accumulated a one man museum in his own home.

Gymnasium Fall Hurts Hart Mentor

Mr. G. Darwin Peavy, Hartnell tennis coach and gymnastics instructor, received a head injury May 22 when he fell from the top of the bleachers while adjusting a cable for one of the backboards in the men's gymnasium.

Coach Peavy was taken to a local hospital and remained overnight. However, the injury was not serious and he returned to college the following day.

Down the street his funeral goes,
And the sobs and wails diminish.
He died from drinking shellac they say,
And he had a lovely finish.

Annual Dedicated To Mr. Louis Eris; Popular Instructor Has Colorful Story

By JUDY WOODWARD

The 1956 La Reata was appropriately dedicated to Mr. Louis Eris.

Mr. Eris was born in the Basque country, Maulean-Soule, Basses-Pyrenees, France, and came to the United States at the age of 13. He resided in Oakland, and worked and simultaneously attended grammar and later high school. Mr. Eris participated in football and track at Oakland high school. He enrolled at the University of California and received his degree in 1925.

After teaching at the San Rafael military academy for three years, and one year at the Marin junior college, Mr. Eris came to Hartnell in 1929. He taught French and Spanish and in 1934 began teaching psychology.

In his 27 subsequent years here he has seen the building of Hartnell college, its changes and its growth. He recalls when the Salinas junior college moved to its present location in 1936. Mr. Eris and the late Hartnell college president, John Lemos, moved records and books from the old building adjoining Salinas high school during their Easter vacation. He saw the enrollment of Hartnell drop from an all-time high of 1,000 to 350 when the war struck in 1942 and the college men became soldiers.

Mr. Eris met his wife while he was working his way through college at the University of California. They have two children, Ramona Eris, 22, a teacher at El Gabilan school in Salinas, and Rene Eris, present president of the Hartnell student body. Mrs. Eris teaches at Sherwood school.

Mr. Eris' hobbies include "a little bit of everything", but focus on sports and gardening.

Taught Mrs. Middaugh

In his 27 years at Hartnell, he has "already taught the sons and daughters whose parents made love in my classes." Mrs. Jack Middaugh, graduate of Stanford and present English and women's physical education instructor, is a former student of Mr. Eris.

mer student of Mr. Eris.

Of present students Mr. Eris says, "I think people talk too much about juvenile delinquency and kids going to the dogs. I have been teaching for 31 years and I think kids today are even better than their parents were because they live in a very disturbed and uncertain age and, despite this, they manage to have courage and hope in themselves, in their country and in the future."

Mr. Eris wrote a letter to Roy Bayford, yearbook editor, Mr. George Abbott, advisor, and the yearbook staff thanking them for the dedication.

Dr. Bjarnason Teaches Course In Icelandic By Correspondence

Anyone care to increase his knowledge of good literature? Good literature through the poetry and sagas of Iceland is a prime objective of a course in Icelandic language being offered by correspondence through the University of California and Dr. L. L. Bjarnason, Hartnell college English and literature professor.

Of what possible use could a course in Icelandic be to anyone? Dr. Bjarnason is asked this question frequently, and the answers are simple.

First, the United States has a continuing need for linguists and translators because of the military and civilian airports in Iceland.

Top Tourist Attraction

Second, Iceland has become quite a tourist attraction. Many airplanes between New York and Europe make this tiny country a regular stop on the Great Circle route. Most of the passengers spend a few hours in Iceland, while others stay for several days.

Third, Icelandic is a key language for anyone seriously interested in learning comparative Germanic linguistics. The Icelandic language is related to but differs from Swedish, Danish and other Scandinavian languages, according to Dr. Bjarnason.

Fourth, or perhaps first, there is a great body of good literature in this unusual language. Icelandic poetry and sagas are outstanding. Last year's Nobel prize winner, Halldor Kiljan Laxness, an Icelandic, wrote his prize winning book, "Independent People," in the Icelandic language. It concerns the heroic struggle of an Icelandic farmer to achieve spiritual and financial independence.

Studied in Iceland

Dr. Bjarnason's interest in Icelandic is almost inborn. His grandfather came from Iceland and settled in Utah in 1860. Dr. Bjarnason was raised in Salt Lake City and, prior to his graduation from the University of Utah, spent a year as an undergraduate in the University of Iceland in 1930-31. He returned to Iceland as a graduate student in 1937-38 and received his master's degree in Scandinavian languages and literature from Harvard university in 1939. He learned the Icelandic language from his family and friends in Utah and from living and traveling in Iceland.

The course in Icelandic came about in a rather unusual way. The University of California had seen the need for such a course for some time, but needed a syllabus and a teacher. Dr. Bjarnason happened to mention his ancestry to Alice Rowbothan, head of the university correspondence division, and she asked if he would write a syllabus for the language course.

The present course is a two semester, four units per semester, course in Modern Icelandic language. Dr. Bjarnason is writing a syllabus for another two semester course in Icelandic literature in which students will study modern Icelandic literary works.

Not a Cold Nation

Contrary to popular belief, Iceland is not a land of ice and snow thinly populated with illiterate natives. As a matter of fact, "skatable ice," as Dr. Bjarnason calls it, is uncommon in Reykjavik, the capital city of Iceland. According to Dr. Bjarnason, the climate is a little cooler than that of Salinas, perhaps about the same as the climate of Scotland. There is a great deal of rain and wind, but relatively little snow except in the mountains.

From an educational standpoint, illiteracy is practically unknown in Iceland. The University of Iceland, located in Reykjavik, has high scholastic standards, and many Icelanders study in the United States. The average Icelandic, Dr. Bjarnason points out, subscribes to two or three newspapers, several journals and has a library in his home. Books are the most popular Christmas gifts. Most of the people speak English and Danish or German in addition to Icelandic.

In conclusion, Dr. Bjarnason pointed out Iceland is about two thirds the size of California. Although it is thinly populated, Reykjavik has a population of about 45,000 to 50,000, and the other major city, Akureyri, has about 15,000 residents. Fishing is the main industry, in fact approximately 90 per cent of the country's economy

Coach Regli, Salinas Mentor 19 Years, Was Four Sport Standout At San Jose

By DAVE CROCKER

Coach Jess Regli, head baseball mentor and assistant coach of Hartnell's basketball team, has been around the Salinas area for some 19 years. Born in Mountain View, Calif., Coach Regli entered Mountain View high school in 1919 and was graduated in 1923. Regli was married to Kathleen Snider and has a married daughter, Rowena, who reside in Monterey.

During Mr. Regli's stay in high school he received 15 wards. He went on to even higher fame in athletics. During his stay at San Jose State from 1924 until 1928, he was presented with 13 more for his skill and ability in football, basketball, baseball and track.

In track, Mr. Regli was a 10-flat man in the 100 and was 10 inches short of the world's record in the discus. His time was 21.8 for the 220-yard dash. Baseball was always tops with Coach Regli. Batting a strong .485 in college, he led the Spartans of San Jose at the plate.

While at Hartnell Coach Regli has produced two championship baseball teams, and was runner-up for two seasons.

In 1952, Coach Regli received a letter from Danny Hill, Athletic News Director of San Jose State, informing him he was to be entered in the Spartan all-time Hall of Fame for his feats at SJS. Until 1952, only 85 athletes had received this honor.

Kai Winding and J. J. Johnson Shout Emancipation of Trombone Together

It seems fitting to us that the last column be devoted to discussing the kings of the trombone, Kai Winding and J. J. Johnson. Their sound together has made many a jazz ear all aquiver trying to hear every note. They have cut albums for Savoy, Label, and more recently, Columbia.

Johnson was born in Indianapolis in January, 1924. He got his first orchestra job at 17 with Clarence Love and then went on to play with Benny Carter, Count Basie and Illinois Jacquet. In 1950, he was teaching part time at the music conservatory in the Bronx and also freelancing with Miles Davis. In the 1955 Down Beat Poll he was voted top trombonist in the nation.

Winding was born in Aarhus, Denmark, in 1922 and came to the United States when he was 12. He played with Buddy Day, Shorty Allen, Sonny Durham and Alvino Rey before serving three years in the coast guard where he played in the service band. After his discharge he played with such men as Benny Goodman, Stan Kenton, Charlie Ventura, Gene Ammons, Charlie Parker, Tadd Dameron and Chubby Jackson.

The Johnson-Winding group features a constant interchange of ideas that is rare in combos. Although their styles are slightly different, Winding playing a quicker, more biting type of trombone than Johnson, they always seem to know and appreciate just what the other is doing.

Well, these are among the last words we will write for the Panther Sentinel so we thank you (all two of you) for reading our column and hope you enjoyed it as much as we enjoyed writing it.

All kidding aside, though, we really appreciate you.

Nazi Films Shown To Hartnell Class

Dr. Victor Kaupas, social sciences instructor, last week showed his political science 2B class three priceless Nazi newsreel films that he had saved from confiscation in Europe following World War II. Among other things, one film depicted Hitler giving a speech at Berlin's sport palace during the height of his power and arrogance. The others showed the might of the Fuhrer's army, navy and air force.

Linemen, Quarterback Are Needed For Grid Schedule

Linemen and a quarterback will be needed this fall if the Hartnell Panther gridders are to win the Coast conference football title and come out successfully against one of the toughest junior college schedules in the state.

Opening their season September 17 at Vallejo, newest member of the loop, Coach Ken Blue's charges will play their first home game against Porterville the following week. A home contest with Bakersfield September 29 will find Hartnell against one of the best teams in the nation, and Boise (Idaho), which hosts Hartnell October 13, is another outstanding team. Menlo, a conference foe, is rated high for 1956.

Gone from the Panther fold are the first and second string signal callers, Takeo Hirahara and Chuck Filice. It is hoped that Arza Dillard, a third stringer last fall, and Ron Crichtfield, basketball star who did not play in 1955, will lead Hartnell to the top of the junior college list once again.

Many Regulars Gone

Gone from Hartnell are the three top 1955 tackles, Rowland Payne, Hank Papa and Dave Cole. Also missing are the best guards, Jaime Bareng, Max Anderson, Tony Vargas and Byron Byrd, and regular ends, Zelbert Moore, Hal Boutte and Bill Moxley. Mits Mori and Bill Worrell, regular centers, have also moved to other colleges.

At a football meeting last week, Coach Blue greeted 35 candidates. Included are veteran linemen, Larry Butts, Darwin Tomasini, Ron Jones, Keith Malech, Fred Harris, Jerry Prouty and Mas Nagai. Jim Zachary, regular two years ago who dropped out of college because of a knee injury, may return to Hartnell to help Butts and Harris at the end posts. Blue is looking for great things from such veterans as Tomasini and Malech, if the latter recovers from an injury.

Returning backfield men include: Dave Crocker, Art Lopez, Liggett Lancaster, Frank LaMacchia and Daryl Goodwin, all halfbacks, and Ron Bernal, regular fullback.

Double session workouts will begin September 1 and continue for about two weeks. Coach Blue will be assisted by John Schwellenbach, Don Nergord and possibly Vern Baxter if his employment permits.

Dominguez Cited As Most Valuable

Jesse Dominguez, Gonzales freshman, was elected the most valuable player for the 1956 Hartnell college baseball team, Coach Jess Regli announced recently. The selection was made by Dominguez's teammates.

Final voting was a runoff contest between Dominguez and the team co-captains, Chuck Filice and Bill Davidson. The winner receives the Salinas Lion club trophy and will have his name inscribed on the permanent plaque.

The cagey righthander won six games and lost one in his first season with the Panthers. He was the winner in Hartnell's two Coast conference victories.

Casper Sets New Record in North Calif. Track Meet

Modesto junior college rolled up a total of 89 3/4 points to cop team honors at the Northern California junior college track meet as five new individual meet records were set.

College of Sequoia was second with 54 3/4 points, followed by San Francisco City college with 53 and Hartnell with 50 1/5.

Dick Casper, Panther middle-distance ace, established a new half-mile standard when he toured the 880 in a blazing 1:55.5.

Wes Bond, Hart distance ace, lost out in both of his specialties, the mile and two-mile, to Ray Hall, Modesto. Bond followed Hall to the tape in both events as the Modesto runner had sensational clockings of 4:20.6 and 9:52, respectively.

Compton J. C. Places First In State Meet At Modesto With 81 Points

The powerful Compton J.C. Tartars, paced by double winners Willie Atterbury and Jerry Jennings, easily copped team honors at the California State junior college championships at Modesto Saturday as they rolled up a total of 81 points.

Hartnell finished in last position behind Santa Ana. The Panthers collected 19 1/2 markers while the Santa Ana forces had 20.

Hartnell's Dick Casper came from dead last to finish second to Atterbury in the half-mile run. Casper trailed the field after the first lap but he came back from a boxed-in situation to within four or five strides of the Compton flash.

West Bond took a second in the two mile after leading until the final stretch. In copping a second place, Bond established a new Hart record for the two mile when he covered the eight laps in a 9:34.6 clocking, 20 seconds better than his previous best of 9:55.

Mel Kelly finished in a four-way tie for third place in the pole vault as he equaled the 13-foot 1-inch Panther standard. Kelly is a freshman and is slated to return to the Hart campus next year. Casper and Bond are being sought by several of the leading four-year colleges and universities.

Mr. Ed. Adams, Panther mentor, stated he was thoroughly pleased with the showing of his small group.

FOR HART ELEVEN

Hartnell college recently purchased a seven-man charging machine which is built especially for the spit-T, the attack from which the Panthers will operate. Hartnell A. and M., under the direction of Mr. Don Dudley, was able to construct the machine for half the original cost of $700.00.
